Bad Golf App — Privacy Policy

Effective date: September 3, 2026 Last updated: November 2, 2026

KRWellsGolf LLC, doing business as Bad Golf ("Bad Golf," "we," "us," or "our") operates the Bad Golf mobile application and web app (the "Service"). This Privacy Policy explains what information we collect, how we use it, and the choices you have. We've tried to write it in plain English. If anything is unclear, contact us at support@officialbadgolf.com.

Summary (the short version)

- You need an account. Bad Golf uses email and password, Sign in with Google, or Sign in with Apple. There is no SMS login.
- We collect what the app needs to keep score — your name, your handicap, your rounds, and the courses you play.
- Location is used while you're playing, for the GPS rangefinder and shot tracking. It is used to draw distances, not to build a profile of where you go.
- We do not process payments. The Service holds no funds, has no payment feature, and contains no connection to any payment provider. The one-tap payment buttons that earlier versions offered have been removed.
- We don't use advertising trackers, advertising identifiers, or third-party marketing SDKs. We don't sell your information.
- Other players see less about you than you might think. Your email address is not readable by other users.
- Some pages are public by design. An event's web page and a round's follow-along leaderboard can be opened by anyone with the link, without an account. You can keep yourself off event pages in your Profile settings.
- Your live position is shared with spectators by default while you play a round. Turn off "Share my location with spectators" to stop it.
- You can delete your account and its data from inside the app, at any time.

1. Information we collect

Information you provide

- Account information — the email address you sign up with, or the account identifier supplied by Google or Apple if you use those. If you use Apple's Hide My Email, we receive Apple's relay address, not your real one. Passwords are handled by our authentication provider and are never visible to us.
- Profile information — your display name, an optional profile photo or Bad Golf avatar, an optional home course, and an optional gender setting used to apply the correct course rating and slope for handicap purposes. We don't ask for a phone number; if an earlier version stored one on your account, email us and we'll remove it.

- Handicap information — your handicap index, the handicap you typed at sign-up (marked TEMP until real rounds replace it), and the differentials computed from your round history.
- Golf data — hole-by-hole scores, putts, greens in regulation, fairways hit, penalty strokes, sand saves, the games and formats you selected, and the units associated with them.
- Course information — course names, pars, stroke indexes, tee names, ratings, slopes, yardages, and GPS mapping data. Course data is a shared, collaborative library.
- Round, tournament and league data — round codes, group and cart assignments, tournament rosters, league rosters, fixtures, standings and season records.
- Social content — friend requests and friendships, posts, replies and reactions on the crew message board, and highlights generated from your rounds.
- Feedback — anything you submit through "✍️ Share feedback" or the contact form, including any screenshots you choose to attach.
- Photos and logos — event and sponsor logos, tournament and league album photos, and feedback screenshots that you choose to upload. These are stored as image files with our hosting provider.
- Shot data — tracked shot distances and the club associated with them, and the club distances you configure in My Clubs.

Information collected automatically

- Location — see Section 2.
- Round codes — a short word-and-number identifier (for example, "EAGLE42") used to sync a round between phones.
- Push notification tokens — a device identifier issued by Apple or Google so we can deliver notifications you've enabled.
- Timestamps and sync state — when rounds were created, updated or finished, and which round your device last had open so the app can resume.
- Basic app telemetry — the app build you are running, your platform (iOS, Android or web) and a last-seen timestamp. This is used to tell you when an update is available, to size support decisions, and to compute aggregate adoption and retention numbers. It is not sold or shared.

2. Location

Bad Golf requests location access so the GPS rangefinder can work. When you grant it:

- Your device's location is used to compute distances to the front, middle and back of the green, to the fairway target, and to any point you drag the target marker to.
- It is used to find nearby courses when you open the course picker.

- If you turn on the drive-distance estimate, your position at address and after the shot is used to estimate how far you hit it, and that estimate is saved to your shot log.
- Live position for spectators (on by default). While you play a round, your position on the course is shared with the other players in that round and with friends who spectate it, so they can follow your dot on the GPS map. Turn off "Share my location with spectators" in Additional settings to stop this; with it off, only the hole you are on is shared, not your position.
- If "Alert friends when I start a round" is on (it is by default), your friends get a notice naming the course you are playing and its city and state.

Location is used while you are using the app. We do not build advertising profiles from it, we do not sell it, and we do not share it with data brokers. If you decline location access, scoring, statistics and every non-GPS feature still work.

3. Apple Watch and Apple Health

If you use the Apple Watch app, the watch starts a golf workout session while a round is live so watchOS keeps the app awake and the GPS warm. This requires Health permission on first use.

- The workout is written to Apple Health on your own device, which is why the round also appears in Apple Fitness.
- We do not read your health data, and no health information is transmitted to us.
- If you decline Health access, everything still works — the GPS just cold-starts on each wrist raise.

4. Camera, photos, and microphone

- Camera — used only when you choose to measure a putt or closest-to-the-pin distance with the augmented-reality measuring tool, or to take a photo for your profile, an event logo, a tournament or league photo album, or a feedback screenshot. The measuring tool runs on your device; its camera view is not sent to us.
- Photos — used only when you choose to set a profile photo, add an event or sponsor logo, post to a tournament or league photo album, or attach a screenshot to feedback. We access the image you pick, not your photo library. Album photos can be seen by that event's or league's members and, if the organizer shares the event's web page, by anyone with that link.
- Microphone / speech — the "🎤 Say the scores" feature uses your device's own speech recognition to turn what you say into scores. Where your device or keyboard performs that recognition through Apple's or Google's system services, that audio is handled by them under their own privacy policies. Bad Golf does not record, store or transmit audio.

5. What we do NOT collect

- We do not collect payment information. The Service processes no payments, holds no funds, and has no payment feature or payment-provider connection of any kind.

- We do not collect government-issued identifiers, financial account numbers, or precise health information.
- We do not use advertising identifiers (IDFA, AAID) or any cross-app tracking.
- We do not use third-party analytics or marketing SDKs — no Google Analytics, Mixpanel, Firebase Analytics, or similar.
- We do not access your contacts.
- We do not sell your personal information, and we do not share it for cross-context behavioural advertising.

6. How we use the information

The information you provide is used to:

- Keep score, apply handicaps, and compute standings and unit totals
- Sync a round between the phones in your group during play
- Save your round history, statistics and handicap index
- Show you and your friends leaderboards, highlights and live rounds
- Run tournaments and leagues you are a member of
- Send you the notifications you've enabled
- Answer your support requests and act on your feedback
- Keep the shared course library accurate
- Detect and prevent abuse, spam and unauthorised access

7. What other players can see

Bad Golf is a social app, so some information is shared by design. The boundaries are:

- Anyone with a round code can read and modify that round's data, including the player names and scores in it. Share round codes only with your group.
- Other signed-in users can see your name, avatar and handicap where you appear — a leaderboard, a friend search, a roster, or a round you are both in.
- Your email address is not readable by other users. A restricted directory exposes only the fields listed above; your full profile row is visible to you alone.
- Anything you post to the crew message board is visible to your accepted friends.
- Anyone with an event's web page link can see that event's leaderboard, tee times, groups, scores, unit totals and photos, with players' full names, without an account. The page isn't listed anywhere, but anyone the link is passed to can open it. To stay off every event page, turn off "Show me on public event pages" in your Profile settings.

- Anyone with a round's follow-along link can see that round's players, scores, games and unit totals, without an account. A player in the round shares the link; email addresses and account identifiers are never included.
- Administrators can see account information, including email addresses (and any phone number an earlier version stored), in the user-management tools used to merge duplicate accounts and provide support.

8. Service providers

We use a small number of third parties to run the Service. Each receives only what its function requires.

- Supabase — hosting, database, authentication and file storage. Your account, profile, rounds and uploaded images are stored here.
- Apple — Sign in with Apple, push notifications, and App Store distribution.
- Google — Sign in with Google, push notifications, Google Play distribution, and satellite map tiles.
- Esri / ArcGIS — satellite imagery and address geocoding for the GPS map. Map and geocoding requests include the coordinates or the search text being looked up.
- Open-Meteo and the Iowa Environmental Mesonet — wind and temperature for the course you're playing. These requests include the course's approximate coordinates.
- OpenStreetMap (Nominatim and Overpass) — course lookup and course-data research. Used primarily by administrators maintaining the course library.
- jsDelivr — a content delivery network that serves the map library.
- Anthropic — if an event organizer uses "Ask the commissioner", the request they type and a snapshot of that event (player names, handicaps, teams, groups and tee times) are sent to Anthropic's Claude model to turn the request into suggested changes. The organizer reviews every suggestion before anything is saved.

We do not authorise any of these providers to use your information for their own marketing.

9. Data retention and deletion

- You can delete your account from inside the app — Account → Delete account. Your account and data are removed immediately. You can also email support@officialbadgolf.com with the subject "Bad Golf Account Deletion Request" from the address on your account, and we will process it within 30 days.
- What deletion removes: your account and sign-in, your profile and player link, your saved rounds, scores, statistics and handicap history, your game history and final-standing records, and your device push-notification tokens.
- What deletion does not remove: rounds you played with other people remain in their round history, because their scorecards include the round you shared. Those rounds are no longer linked to any account of yours.

- Photos and screenshots you uploaded (album photos, event and sponsor logos, feedback screenshots) are stored as separate image files. Deleting your account removes your album entries; to have the image files themselves erased, email support@officialbadgolf.com.
- Crew message board threads are deleted automatically 30 days after their last activity.
- Course library data is shared and collaborative, and is retained as part of the library.
- We keep the rest of what you enter for as long as your account exists.

10. Security

Data is transmitted over encrypted connections and stored with our hosting provider under access rules that restrict each account to its own data. No system is perfectly secure, and we cannot guarantee absolute security — in particular, round codes are short and anonymous by design, so anyone who has one can read that round.

11. Children

Bad Golf is not directed to children. You must be at least 18 years old (or the age of majority where you live) to use the Service, and we do not knowingly collect information from anyone under 18. If you believe a child has provided us information, contact us and we will delete it.

12. Your choices and rights

- Access and correction — you can view and edit your profile, handicap, clubs and rounds inside the app at any time.
- Deletion — see Section 9.
- Notifications — every push category can be turned off in the app's notification settings.
- Location — can be revoked at any time in your device's system settings.
- Live location sharing — turn off "Share my location with spectators" in Additional settings.
- Public event pages — turn off "Show me on public event pages" in your Profile settings.
- Depending on where you live, you may have additional rights over your personal information, including the right to request access to it, correction of it, or deletion of it, and the right not to be discriminated against for exercising those rights. To make a request, email support@officialbadgolf.com from the address on your account.

13. Where your information is held

The Service is operated from the United States and your information is stored and processed there. If you use Bad Golf from outside the United States, you understand that your information will be transferred to and processed in the United States.

14. Changes to this policy

We may update this Privacy Policy from time to time. Material changes will be reflected by updating the "Last updated" date at the top. Continued use of the Service after a change constitutes acceptance.
